HOLD MINSTREL SHOW

Part of Narberth Theater Saturday
Entertainments.

A novelty was introduced at the Saturday matinee last week at the Narberth Theater when the patrons were treated to a minstrel show put on by a group of local boys and girls. They had been rehearsed for the occasion by Manager Manuell Salasin.

Preparation for the show was one of a group of entertainments staged by the theater management for Narberth young people. These affairs, held at 4.15 on Tuesday and Friday afternoons, take place in the auditorium over the theater and are not part of the regular routine.

Under the direction of Walter G. Case a harmonica band has been formed, which rehearses every Tuesday. Instruction is furnished free at the present time to 35 boys and girls. Others are invited to join.

Mr. Salasin has formed a musical club which rehearses on Friday afternoons at 4.15. Free instruction in individual and group singing is being furnished by a noted concert tenor. The theater is promoting these activities as a civic move and parents have been invited to look in at the rehearsals to see what is being accomplished.

Among those who participated in the minstrel show were Jane McCartan, Catharine Megarry, Dorothy Cabrey, Mary Case, Dorothy Abbott, Eileen Leshy, Dorothy Myers, Mary Rosetti, Ellsworth Haigh and "Whitey" Humphreys. Harmonica selections were made by Robert Woolston and Thomas Bevan.

DINNERS COMMENCE

The Saturday night dinners of the Narberth Tennis Association, which proved to be such an enjoyable feature of the club life last year, will be inaugurated tonight for the 1928 season at the club house at Haverford and Montgomery avenues. All visitors as well as club members are welcome.

Philadelphia Bakers to Locate on Haverford Avenue.

Announcement was made this week by Robert J. Nash that a Horn & Hardart retail shop is coming to Narberth and will occupy one of the new stores being erected by Mr. Nash at 231 and 233 Haverford avenue.

The announcement of the closing of the lease follows unofficial statements current for several weeks. The lease is dated from August 15 so the shop will probably be opened before Labor Day. This will be the second Horn & Hardart retail shop to be opened on the Main Line, the first being started at Ardmore on March 20 of this year.

The second floors of the new stores will be occupied respectively by Dr. H. F. McDuffee, dentist, and by Helen V. Farrell, proprietor of the Narberth Beauty Shop, as their offices and living apartments. The lessee of the remaining store has not yet been announced.

The building is face with white cut stone and makes a very pleasing appearance. It is very much in keeping with the better class of stores and apartments that have been erected in the borough recently.

Dr. McDuffee is located at present in the adjoining building on the second floor over a chain store. The present quarters of the Narberth Beauty Shop are on Essex avenue just around the corner from Haverford.

PENN. A. C. VICTOR AFTER CLOSE GAME

Pennacs Extended to Limit to Win Last Week by 9 to 8 Score.

PLAY LA MOTT TODAY

Before the biggest crowd of the season Narberth went down to defeat last Saturday to the Penn Athletic Club in a nip and tuck game, 9 to 8. In addition to playing errorless ball Narberth made three double plays. Heavy hitting featured the game, Lindsay being leading slugger for the Penn A. C., and Hampshire and Yowell for Narberth.

Masters pitched a good game for the home team and, had it not been for a revoked decision in the ninth, he might have been the winning pitcher. A former star of the Narberth team, John H. Jeffries, Jr., was responsible for two of the visitors' runs.

Neither team scored in the first inning, and Narberth gained a three-run lead in the second, which, however, was short lived. By the fifth the teams were tied at five all. Narberth scored one in the sixth when the Pennacs went scoreless, but lost the lead and, as it proved to be, the game in the seventh when the visitors put four runs across the plate. Narberth's efforts in the eighth fell one short of tying the Pennacs.

The controversial play came in

In an exciting twilight game last Wednesday Narberth tripped up the Oriental Professionals by a 9-to-5 score. Over 200 fans were on hand to see Graham display wonderful mound work and defeat two veteran pitchers.

Humphreys, veteran of the Narberth team and hero of many memorable games when Narberth headed the list of Main Line league champions, played an excellent game in right field.

Gillfilan's prowess at bat was well known, as the manager of the visiting team instructed his Funeral obsequies were performed recently over one of the prodigious "Dead End Street" signs placed at the entrance of Elm terrace. The rites took the tangible form of crepe and flowers draped over the sign. This gesture on the part of some witty resident is assumed to be in the nature of a hint or a prophecy.

Some time ago the attention of the Borough Council was called through a communication from residents living on Wynnedale road and similar streets with no outlet, that much confusion, time and tempers could be saved if signs were placed at the entrances of all such streets.

The Highway Committee of council reported favorably upon this proposition and the department of public works proceeded to carry it out. Signs of a railroad crossing size have accordingly been placed at the entrance of Wynnedale road, Elm terrace, Grayling avenue just above the Presbyterian church and at Wynnewood Court.

A writer of an epistle to the editor of Our Town last week objected strongly to the dimensions of these mutilators of the landscape, and judging from the action of the above mentioned person, he has gained some supporters. The author of this letter made a very excellent suggestion, anent this situation, to wit, that smaller signs bearing the words "No Outlet" would prove sufficient for the edification of motorists and would not desecrate the landscape to any appreciable extent. The sign at the corner of Essex avenue and Barry road was cited as an example of artistry applied to street signs.

But whether the borough dads will take the hint of the aforementioned wit remains to be seen. In the mean time the "Dead End Street" signs continue to do duty.

PAYNTER, ROTARY SPEAKER

Past Master Cassia Lodge, Ardmore,
Talks at Dinner in Cynwyd.

A talk on Rotary and its effect on human nature and a round-table discussion featured the monthly dinner of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday evening at the Cynwyd Club. This is the last evening meeting until fall.

Membership in Rotary, Mr. Paynter said, has been proven a great influence in the moulding of human nature. The change in attitude is often noticeable to friends, associates and competitors.

Similarly, the speaker claimed, is a changed attitude reached in respect for the law and for religion. This latter influence, it was brought out, sometimes causes the enthusiastic Rotarian to regard the organization in itself. These constitute a small minority, however, and the effect is usually that of a greater respect for organized religion.

Following the scheduled speech, Joseph J. Skelton, Jr., made a brief talk on relationships between members which introduced a round-table discussion in which practically every member participated with short remarks. Problems of club policy, programs, etc., were taken up.

JUNE 13 IS DEAD LINE

Notices requiring repairs on sidewalks and curbs were served on 168 Narberth residents by the Police Department in the name of the Highway Committee of Council on June 1. These notices came as a result of a careful inspection of all the streets of the Borough which was made recently by all of the members of the Highway and Sewer Committee and also by Superintendent Supplee.

Many of these notices call the property owners' attention to small repairs; in fact, in only a few cases is it necessary to ask

Roberts' Estate Flower Display at Narberth Attracts Hundreds

Floral grandeur is displayed in the course of the year on many noted Main Line estates. But probably nowhere in the country is there so beautiful a grouping of flowers so early in the season as on the grounds of Percival Roberts, Jr., on State road, in back of Narberth.

For some weeks past there have been scores of visitors daily to see Mr. Roberts' flowers, and on pleasant Saturdays and Sundays the number has run into the hundreds. In the early evening long lines of motorcars have parked in the neighborhood, while the occupants sought to obtain a view of the masses of bloom through the narrow gateway, which offers the only opportunity for strangers to gaze upon the unusual spectacle.

The floral display consists of an amazing profusion of mountain pink growing over a precipitous hillside. The elevation produces the effect of masses piled upon masses of bloom which is thus far more spectacular than would be the same extent of flowers upon a level surface.

Though the flowers are mountain pink, only a comparative small portion of them are pink in color. The shades run through many gradations, from pure white to purple, and this intermingling of colors adds to the marvel.

Is of Pioneer Family.

Mr. Roberts, the owner of this estate, is one of the family of that name who are descended from John Roberts, a member of the pioneer group of Welshmen who settled in Lower Merion township. John Roberts arrived in 1683 and bought 250 acres near Pencoyd.

At Pencoyd the elder Percival Roberts, with Algernon Roberts, in 1852, founded the Pencoyd Iron Works, which has developed into one of the foremost industries of Pennsylvania. It was long famous for the manufacture of bridges. In 1900 the Roberts firm was merged into the American Bridge Company, with Percival Roberts, Jr., as president. A year later, when the gigantic United States Steel Corporation was formed, the American Bridge Company became one of its principal constituents. Mr. Roberts was made a director of the Steel Corporation and he has continued to hold that office up to the present time, serving also as a member of the Finance Committee of the board of directors.

Judge Gary, long the head of the Steel Corporation, once referred to Mr. Roberts as "the greatest practical steel man in the world." In his early years Mr. Roberts studied both the technical and the administrative departments of the steel business throughout all their phases, beginning work at Pencoyd as a clerk and gaining promotion from rank to rank until he was general manager, then vice president and finally president of the original A. and P. Roberts Company. MacVeigh Place a Contrast.

In striking contrast with the well-kept estate of Mr. Roberts is another property in Lower Merion, not far away, at Spring Mill road and Morris avenue. No crowds flock there now, though residents whose memory goes back 30 or 40 years recall when many of the world's most famous men and women were entertained there. That was when Brookfield Farm was the home of Wayne MacVeigh, attorney general under President Garfield and later minister to Italy.

In the last five years this estate of 235 acres has been sold and resold several times, being quadrupled in price in that time. The last sales are said to have been made at $5000 an acre. When Wayne MacVeigh bought the place he paid less than $200 an acre for it.

The house has not been occupied for some time. Lately the cutting down of large trees about the house and other changes suggest the days of this landmark may be numbered.

sentation of the class, by Principal C. B. Pennypacker.

Five scholarships, over 25 prizes for scholastic ability, and two new awards will be given according to Principal Pennypacker, who declared that names of the recipients will not be made known until tonight. The scholarships will be given by the Alumni Association, Bryn Mawr Business Men's Association, Bryn Mawr Woman's Club and the Richard J. Hamilton estate, all as usual; and in place of the Auto-car award of last year, Bryn Mawr College has offered a scholarship.

Another new prize will be that offered by the Phi Beta Kappa Association of Philadelphia to the boy who ranks highest in literature, mathematics and Latin. A white V-necked sweater with five-inch maroon letters, "L. M.," to be given by the High School Athletic Association to the boy or girl who has won seven letters in major sports in Senior High School, or eight letters in all final four grades of high school will again be presented tonight. It was not given last year as no one had earned it. Alan Cook will be the boy to get this sweater.

Two prizes of $5 each will be given the Seniors whose work in mechanical drawing and architectural drawing has been judged best. They were presented to the school by last year's graduating class, in the form of a $200 fund, whose interest makes the awards possible.

Hear Baccalaureate Sermon.

The graduates commenced their final round of activities Sunday night in the Senior High School, where they attended a special church service. Dr. Churchill J. Gibson, rector of St. Mary's Church, Ardmore, pictured, in his baccalaureate sermon to the class, Jesus as an out-of-door man, rugged and stalwart from His long walks through the deserts and hills of Palestine, fearing nothing, and living a life of idealism, which has never been excelled, but which might well be emulated.

Readings, hymns, prayers and a school chorus anthem completed the evening service.

On Monday over 50 members of the graduating class entrained for the annual class visit to Washington, where they went sight-seeing until Wednesday afternoon.

While nearly half the Seniors were away, the annual Parents' Night was held in the Senior High School Tuesday, when a drama, "The Twig of Thorn," was presented by the Senior High School Dramatic Clubs. The play was preceded by musical selections played by the high school orchestra, and a fashion show. Exhibits of the Seniors' art and other work were placed on display in the school halls, to be viewed.

Quite serious was the play, which described hardships, love and self-sacrifice in the cottage of Nessa Teig, the year of the Great Famine in Ireland. From the curtain's rise on twilight in the last day of March to its fall on the first day of winter, the well-acted play gripped the interest of the audience, which was so large that over a hundred parents were unable to make their way into the packed auditorium.

The cast of "The Twig of Thorn," which was written by Marie Josephine Warren, was as follows:

Nessa Teig, Helene Coogan; Maurya, Agnes Downs; Oonah, Jane Knowlton; Aengus Arann, Albert Lambert; Aileen, Randolph Keim; Father Brian, Frank Craft; A Faery Child, Anne Donnelly; Hunger Phantom, Agnes Campbell; Sheila, Lillie Henry; Kathleen, Kathleen Quinn; Finula, Marjorie Sellers; Sheamus, Herbert Harkins; Martin, Frank Mantz; Tumaus, Cecil Lipkin; Faery Voices, Sophomore Girls.

Tonight's commencement exercises will be followed by the annual Alumni meeting and dance tomorrow night, to which the new graduates are invited. Other school events will conclude with the combined grammar schools' annual entertainment Monday night in the Senior High School and the Junior High Parents' Night, Tuesday.

This consolidation of operations will result in the formation of five major divisions of the territory formerly covered separately by The Philadelphia Electric Company, the Delaware County Electric Company and the Philadelphia Suburban-Counties Gas & Electric Company.

The co-ordination of operations as herein outlined does not mean a consolidation of the corporate structures of the companies, but is the logical procedure for the expansion and betterment of service in the territory thus covered; and is a further development of the program outlined when The United Gas Improvement Company acquired The Philadelphia Electric Company. By thus combining engineering and other forces in these three companies, we are enabled to offer our customers a well-rounded and adequate service.

A Point in Narberth Where Tragedy Lurks

From Our Town's editorial office at Narberth and Haverford avenues various noises float in from the busy streets. From the Narberth Electric Shop and the Arcadia Restaurant we hear the strains of jazz, bits of symphonies, speeches on abstruse topics, baseball scores, weather reports.

The Narberth Coal Company trucks thunder in and out with their dark cargoes; a stalled freight train engineer talks with his whistle to the flagman a mile in the rear; roller skates resound on the pavement; auto horns jar the air.

Punctuating these sounds is the scream of suddenly applied brakes, the grind of protesting tires on macadam; now and again the screech of a wrecked fender or the tinkle of broken glass, telling us that two cars are trying to occupy the same piece of road. Disagreeable prophecies are easy to make, yet we fear the worst. From our point of vantage near tragedies are seen many times a day. We expect some day to rush to the phone to call "Bryn Mawr 1," adding the clang of an ambulance to the melody of sounds coming through our window.

Cars rush into the crossing from all directions at speeds ranging from a nervous three miles an hour to a horn-blowing and insolent forty. Cars may make the turn from any position, cutting sharp or swinging wide. Pedestrians either avoid the corner or rush across in fear of instant annihilation. A great danger factor lies in the west-bound busses. They come down the hill on Haverford avenue at a goodly clip, usually swinging completely to the left side of the road to get their enormous bulk around the corner. Motorists coming down from the Narberth avenue bridge swing quickly around the corner of the Merion Title Building, only to find themselves face to face with a bus on the wrong side of the road. More screaming brakes—more streaks of black rubber.

To complicate the matter, parking is carried right into the intersection. Fruit and drug store trucks are stuck out at an angle frequently at the very corner. Patrons of the two pool rooms park their collegiate craft at various points. Giant chain store trucks stop in the center of the road for the time necessary to unload their goods.

A tragedy may be averted if the police cool the ardor of the speedy lads and untangle the parking mess. Otherwise an automatic traffic light will surely be needed—and there is no greater nuisance known to man.

The borough fathers should tackle the problem today, lest one of them find that a member of his own family has furnished the tragic impetus to correction. Certainly none of us should wait to solve the matter until a day when we must wear a black band on his sleeve while doing it.

SERVE NOTICES

for more extensive repairs. Last year 100 similar notices were sent out and 60 people promptly complied with them. Of the remaining 40 there were some who thought that the notice did not mean what it said. They found themselves mistaken when after a lapse of the legal period of time contractors in the employ of the borough proceeded to do the work, which meant that the delinquent property owner had to pay the bill plus the 10 per cent. penalty which the Ordinance provides.

It will save all property owners who have received those notices this year possible future annoyance if they give prompt and careful attention to the work which is required. If any property owner is in doubt as to what is required, he should get in touch immediately with the Superintendent of Public Works, George B. Supplee, who maintains regular office hours every morning and every afternoon in temporary quarters opposite the fire house on Forrest avenue. June 15 is the dead line set, after which the borough will do the work, charging it to the property owners and adding the 10 per cent. penalty.

DOWN ORIENTALS

pitchers to walk him rather than give him a chance to hit. The instructions proved futile, however, as the Narberth third baseman collected three hits and two runs.

Adam and Keys played a fine game for the Orientals, with Jimmie Keys as the master mind of the team. Jimmie, a former Narberth player, was always on the job instructing and coaching his men as they took to the field.

Mulligan, youthful star of many games, never fails to impress, while Babb and Gillilan were a constant menace to the visitors.

The first couple of innings were somewhat tame with Davis scoring Narberth's first run in the opening frame, and Hampshire.

Thomas and Humphreys adding three more in the second with ease. In the fourth the visitors scored one run and missed another when Keys was put out on an attempted steal for home.

Thomas ended their rally by making a fine running catch. The fifth added three more runs to the visitors' score. Narberth scored twice in their end of the fifth, Gillilan and Hampshire crossing the plate. The sixth saw two more Narberth runs when Rubin and Babb singled, followed by Gillilan's single which scored Rubin as Babb advanced to third. Davis sacrificed and Babb stole home.

The seventh inning proved to be the most exciting of the game when Lehman and Cudd singled, followed by Desoine's walk, filling the bases. Local supporters heaved a sigh of relief as Rubin caught Lotter's fly on the run. The ninth saw the last Oriental run as Adam, having doubled, was scored by Keys' two-sacker.

the ninth inning with two out and a man on third. Masters reached first on a close play which was called safe. The umpire, however, reversed his decision, which robbed the home team of any further chance of tying up the score. It is quite possible that Narberth might have won the fray, as they were hitting frequently at the time, had it not been for this questionable decision.

Today the La Mott team of Germantown will cross bats with the Narberth team on the playground at 3 o'clock. Sunday a return game will be played with La Mott at their field in Germantown.

Wednesday, June 13, Berwyn, of the Main Line League, will be Narberth's opponent in a twilight game.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

A Narberthite was handed a bouquet last Saturday by the "Reporters' Nosegay" department in the Philadelphia Record. To Walton M. Wentz went the first paragraph. In Narberth his honors include the unique one of being a good Democrat; in addition he is borough treasurer, a former member of Council, active in the Boy Scouts and a past exalted editor of Our Town. The nosegay read:

"Press agents are commonly considered the bane of newspaper editor's life, but one in Philadelphia is hailed with appreciation and pleasure in practically every news room in the city. The qualities that have endeared Walton M. Wentz, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to local dailies and earned for him the respect of the city editors are his thoroughness in arranging the accommodations of the press on P. R. R. 'stories' and his ever-obliging assistance when difficult occasions, such as wrecks and collisions and special tours of prominent men arise. He was formerly assistant chief of the road's publicity staff and is now editor of the Pennsylvania Railroad House organ, the Pennsylvania News."

First Anniversary Week

June 10th to 17th

One Year of Progress:

On June 10, 1927, we acquired ownership control of this company.

On January 1, 1928, we introduced the completely new line of Graham-Paige motor cars which we returned to the industry to build.

Within three months of their introduction, this company enjoyed the greatest single month's business in its eighteen years' history.

Sales for the last three months exceeded those for the entire year of 1927.

To the public, which has made this progress possible, we express our gratitude and sincere appreciation.

One year ago, in our initial message, we said:

"The public expects motor car executives to keep abreast of the times and make their product constantly better. We shall earnestly strive to do so."

We believe you will find Graham-Paige motor cars abreast of the times—in engineering, in fine appearance and finish, and in ability to deliver genuine satisfaction.

You will find in the four-speed transmission (with standard gear shift) an engineering advance which results in distinctly improved performance at all speeds—a new motoring experience.

We invite you to ride in and drive a Graham-Paige and form your own conclusions as to the quality and substantial value of these new motor cars.

63-ACRE TRACT SOLD

Near the new Philadelphia Country Club at Bryn Mawr, a tract of 63 acres held at $375,000 has been conveyed by the Colonial Trust Company, as trustees, to William D. Fowler. The sale was consummated by Samuel C. Wagner, Jr.

This tract immediately adjoins to the south the 235 acres owned by Percival E. Foerderer and to the west the 46-acre tract which was sold last week by the same brokers for Richard J. Seltzer. The property fronts on Mt. Pleasant road and extends by right of way through to the Conshohocken State road. This represents the fifth sizable ground transaction within the past month or so in the vicinity of the new Philadelphia Country Club.

Good stuff and unanswerable. A chain store is of no more use to a community than a house-to-house peddler. Its prices considered as a whole are no better than the independents' and the service it renders isn't as good. It spends no money in the community, contributes nothing as a rule to local enterprises, is utterly indifferent to community interests, and everything considered is a mere parasite living off a town that it does nothing for.

Keep Your Dollar at Home, for Keeping Trade in Community is Deemed Especially Desirable.

He gives birth to a new song.
All his business connections are in the East.
How to get the song across the continent?
A telephone call!!
He hums the tune over the wires.
It travels over the snow-capped the Mississippi Valley, and the Alleghenies.

It arrives in New York instantly, and is taken down—ready for

LIST NEW BOOKS

All New Books, Rental and Otherwise, to Be Included in Publicity.

The library up to this time, in listing each month the new books for publicity purposes, has included only those recently published. This has meant of course both fiction and non-fiction, for in spite of critical remarks on the taste of modern readers, the Narberth Library finds its non-fiction popular.

Hereafter because of the genuine interest shown in standard books of both classes the library will list each month all the books which have been purchased during the preceding month, instead of only the rental collection.

To illustrate the interest shown in books of non-fiction which were bought in May, the librarian reports that when she sought to collect the books on religious subjects for discussion at a staff meeting she found that three of the four had already gone into circulation and that the demonstration and discussion would have to be postponed.

The list of books purchased during the month of May follows:

Non-fiction—

"The Man Who Knew Coolidge," by Sinclair Lewis.

"Mary Todd Lincoln," by Honore Willis Morrow.

"The Training of an American," by Burton Hendricks.

"Manners," by Helen Hathaway.

"Story of Architecture in America," by Thomas Tallmadge.

"Europe," by Count Keyserling.

"I Believe in God and in Evolution," by Dr. William Keen.

"Student's Philosophy of Religion," by W. K. Wright.

"Fundamental Ends of Life," by R. M. Jones.

"The World's Living Religions," by R. E. Hume.

"Germany," by G. P. Gooch.

"Short History of Germany," by E. F. Henderson.

"Development of Japan," by K. S. Latourette.

"Camping and Woodcraft," by Horace Kephart.

"Civilization of China," by H. A. Giles.

Fiction—

"Catherine-Paris," by Princess Marthe Bibesco.

"But, Gentlemen Marry Brunettes," by Anita Loos.

"The Closed Garden," by Julian Green.

"Pilgrims of the Impossible," by Coningsby Dawson.

"In Search of a Villain," by Robert

Gore-Brown.

"Behind That Curtain," by Earl Derr Biggers.

"Octavia," by Margot Asquith.

"The Fortunate Wayfarer," by E. P. Oppenheim.

"Plains of Abraham," by James Oliver Curwood.

"In the Beginning," by Norman Douglas.

"The Enchanted Flivver," by Berton Braley.

"The Virgin Queen," by Harford Powel.

"Two Forsythe Interludes," by John Galsworthy.

about the Garden

DELPHINIUM TROUBLES—

Why do we not see more delphiniums in our gardens? There should be a great many more tall hybrids and more lower growing, pale blue Bella Donnas. There are several reasons and when once they are understood we will see more delphiniums and more delphinium fanciers, for there is no other plant in the hardy garden that gives anywhere near the return of the investment that does the delphinium.

Delphiniums require a deep, clean soil, with good subsoil drainage and good surface drainage. These requirements are not unusual, in fact, any plant that expects to live long and prosper requires the same conditions. By clean soil we mean soil that contains no partly decayed manure, no partly decayed leaf mold nor any other material that makes a condition for fungus growths. Acid soil is not good for any of our garden perennials and in making a perennial border or a delphinium bed it is necessary to dig the soil to a depth of 18 inches to allow the roots to stretch down and support plants that grow to a height of six feet. To counteract any acid condition, lime, in the form of ground limestone, should be mixed with the soil to its full depth. If the soil is hard clay it can be broken up by mixing clean humus or very old rotted manure with the clay to make it friable and moisture retaining. The limestone will counteract the acidity in the humus.

Such a bed will have perfect subsoil drainage and should be in the center and sloped to a shallow trench at the edges to provide perfect surface drainage. Here, again, are the requirements for any flower bed for healthy plants. Water lying in a puddle over the crowns of delphiniums or any other plant will rot the plant in winter.

Under these conditions delphiniums will thrive and prosper and will outgrow the space originally allotted to them and will have to be divided and reset.

In old planting in unclean or poorly drained soil the plants will appear healthy in the spring, but just about the time they are about to flower the buds will turn black and the plant is proving that a fungus growth has attacked the root. This is called black rot.

Remedies for black rot are remedies that will kill the fungus growth at the root, although the plant had better be reset in clean, well-drained soil if it is to prosper. Semesan or Uspulun liquid will kill the fungus and the liquid Qua-Sul will also help to rid the soil of fungus. But the sensible means is to prevent the condition that the fungus thrives in by providing clean soil and good drainage.

Slugs are very fond of delphiniums, they know good things, and the shoots that show up in March are tempting food. A poison bait, known as Snarol, is very effective and will very promptly eradicate the slugs as well as cut worms that bother other plants.

AT THE THEATER

Novelty, drama, thrill, comedy and appeal are the elements that make William Boyd's latest star picture, "The Night Flyer," the royal flush of railroad films. It will be seen at the Narberth Theater on Monday and Tuesday. Jobyna Ralston is featured as leading woman and Philo McCullough, Ann Schaeffer, De Witt Jennings and other notable players are in the supporting cast.

Probably none of the millions of picture fans who have long admired the work of Francis X. Bushman ever realized his remarkable likeness to the portraits of George Washington. But, in "The Flag," the first of a series of two-reel, full color pictures, re-enacting historic moments of American history, now being released by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which is an added attraction Monday and Tuesday, the addition of a white powdered wig and the uniform of a general of the Colonial Army, Mr. Bushman becomes General Washington to a degree that is truly remarkable.

Thrills, excitement and suspense, as well as laughter and a very human love story, are promised with the showing of Fox Films screen version of the New York stage hit, "Square Crooks," which is coming to the Narberth Theater on Wednesday. Lew Seiler, famed for his direction of comedy romances, made this picture with a fine cast of players, which includes Robert Armstrong, Dorothy Dwan, Johnny Mack Brown and Dorothy Appleby.

FORM READING CLUB

More Reading by School Children

All children who wish to join the Summer Vacation Reading Club which is being formed for the second year by the Mothers' Council and the Narberth Community Library will please register on or after June 15th at the library on Windsor avenue.

A certificate will be awarded to all children reading a certain number of books from the list for their grade. The conditions are:

Any 15 books from the list for children from the fifth grade to the eighth grade inclusive; any 10 books from the list for children from second grade to fourth inclusive. These lists are on file at the Community Library.

These books must be reported in notebooks which can be bought at the library for three cents. A prize will be given for the best note books from each grade. The Reading Club will disband on October 1, 1928.

PLAZA LEVELED

The past week has seen considerable activity by the Pennsylvania Railroad in leveling off the plaza opposite the station on the south side. It is expected that it will be ready for unrestricted parking use in the near future. The entrances have been changed somewhat permitting of easier access by motor vehicles and some guide lines or curbing will undoubtedly be installed in the near future. With the accession of this area as an all-day parking space, the parking problem in the borough will be considerably lessened.

GIVES FINAL CONCERT

Main Line School of Music Completes Fourth Season.

Junior students of the Main Line School of Music were the entertainers at the annual spring festival given at that school, 107 Ardmore avenue, Ardmore, last Thursday afternoon. They gave for a large audience a program of 31 numbers, vocal and instrumental.

The Junior Musicales marked the end of the school's fourth season, during which the enrollment increased by 50 pupils, and new members were added to the faculty. Summarizing the year's progress the school gave a listing this week of some of its activities. They include the following:

A concert given by advanced performers in the Woman's Club Building the evening of May 24 included numbers from the difficult quintette by Dohnanyi, for which Adolph Vogel trained the ensemble and Rosetta French played the piano part. A trio by Gade also showed results of Mr. Vogel's skilled instruction. Mr. Leroy Tebb, of New York, who was recently added to the school's staff as a vocal teacher, presented Mrs. Charles B. Finley in a group of songs.

Among the successful activities of the season were the training of a chorus of women's voices by Adolph Vogel, conductor; ensemble classes with violin, cello and pianos; and a series of musical teas, at which the following women interested in the school have assisted as hostesses: Mrs. Richard M. Gummere, Mrs. Walter C. Janney, Miss Eleanor L. Lord, Mrs. H. Wilson Moorhouse, Mrs. William S. Morris, Miss Jessie Allen Page, Mrs. Samuel R. Shipley, Mrs. George H. Strawbridge, Mrs. John M. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Z. Tryon and Mrs. Henry S. Williams.

TO GIVE MANY PRIZES

As a stimulus to local buying, the Narberth Theater will begin next week the award of special prizes at 9.00 o'clock every Wednesday and Friday evening for four weeks. The campaign is being shared by 20 local merchants.

These special awards to local shoppers will be given out on the basis of numbered coupons with each 25-cent purchase in the stores participating, and with each admission at the theater. The prizes, to the value of $25 from each merchant, will be on display in store windows.

The plan, which is a co-operative one, has received the sanction of the Narberth Board of Trade, which now has a committee inspecting advertising and donation plans so as to keep the out-of-town wolves from the doors of local stores.

ON TIME

Whatever your experience might have been during the winter just passed, if your roof did not serve the purpose intended, you, no doubt, have determined to make it satisfactory at the first opportunity.

We have just unloaded a shipment of Washington Red Cedar Shingles, 18-inch and 24-inch long, all No. 1, and all edge grain. These are the Shingles for durability and attractiveness—but—hot-dipped Zincalad nails should be used for a long life roof.
